Decision making can be just plain hard, and when we expect ourselves to be perfect we make it even more difficult to set realistic goals. A nice way we can look at decision making is seeing it as a banquet. We have a large table in front of us with all the options and related costs and benefits ...

Decision Making, Goal Setting and Perfectionism

Group decision-making (also known as collaborative decision-making) is a situation faced when individuals collectively make a choice from the alternatives before them. The decision is then no longer attributable to any single individual who is a member of the group. This is because all the individuals and social group processes such as social influence contribute to the outcome.
