Since the initial application of this framework by Geels (2004), it has been developed and elaborated in multiple ways. For example, although the narrative of niche-driven transitions remains dominant, the framework has been refined to incorporate a broader range of “transition pathways”™ that differ in the nature and timing of the interactions between the three levels (Geels and Schot, 2007).

Immanuel Kant (1724–1804) is the central figure in modern philosophy. He synthesized early modern rationalism and empiricism, set the terms for much of nineteenth and twentieth century philosophy, and continues to exercise a significant influence today in metaphysics, epistemology, ethics, political philosophy, aesthetics, and other fields.

As a final prefatory comment, I should note a certain bias, of which I am well aware, in my own thinking. This is a bias towards universalizing Clausewitz, who, after all, sought with Vom Kriege to formulate a valid general theory of war. Thus I think it would be a "good" thing if the entire war-studies community could use the essentials of Clausewitzian theory as the common basis for ...
