Misinformation about baseload renewables has distorted the discussion about the least-cost future renewable energy mix. There are renewable baseload power sources with generation profiles that can economically replace other retiring electricity sources megawatt for megawatt, thereby avoiding incurring additional costs from purchasing and then balancing renewable intermittent power sources with ...

"We are looking at everything from how we make our operations more energy efficient to how we can reduce flaring and methane emissions. We also factor carbon into decisions for future projects " this is where we have the greatest opportunity to manage GHG emissions in the years ahead and to maintain a portfolio that is sustainable and resilient."
