The essential ambiguity given by the fact that any topos is associated in general with an infinite number of theories or different sites allows to study the relations between different theories, and hence the theories themselves, by using toposes as 'bridges' between these different presentations.

have to address a fourth difference between the internal logic of toposes and first-order set theories. (D) In first-order set theories (such as BIST), one can compare the elements of different sets for equality, whereas, in the internal logic of a topos, one can only compare elements of the same object.
